

Emmanuel - The exciting adventures of Lio and Dan

Chapter 1

“Lio! Come on I’m not being late again!” shouted Dan. Lio grabbed his heavy bags. “Remember your sandwich,” said Lio’s Mum. He had a game, he would try header the ball into the basket filled with balls. This time it was too late. Upstairs, his room was a jungle. Dan went off to school in a rush. He ran on the meadow of the green grass. Lio waved goodbye to his tropical rainbow fish. Lio was clumsy, funny. Meanwhile, Dan was the complete opposite. He was serious. Very Serious but Lio was the only who made him laugh.

Chapter 2

Lio ran to the figure (who he thought was Dan) “So hey Dan,” he said as he patted the stranger. In a flash, he realise it was a stranger. He felt embarrassed. He ran to school in a hurry. He forgot to eat his delicious sandwich. Quickly, he rushed it down his belly. He crept into the class. The sound of the teacher’s voice repeated in his head. Suddenly, the teacher left. As quick as a cheetah, he ran into the filled class room. Suddenly, his bag leaked.

Chapter 3

Buildings crumbled like paper. The boom of the waves echoed around the city. The window shattered by nature into jagged blades. A veil of mist filled the air. The room turned into a maze. “Help!” shouted the confused teacher. Towering black clouds of ash and smoke surrounded the school. Out of no way, the figure appeared. The text books spilt of the cupboard like water coming out of a tap “Follow me,” said the figure in clipped tones. Everyone went under their desks. Suddenly, the room spilt in half.

Chapter 4

If Lio trusted the figure his life would be on the line. “Wait I’ve met you...” Lio said quietly. In a flash, a secret door appeared. It was made out of thick steel and metal. In bold, it said do not enter. A wooden trapdoor opened. “Lio, are you ok?” asked Dan. Lio couldn’t hear a thing because the earthquake was too loud. In a minute, the class room shoke. The trapdoor opened.

Chapter 5

“Follow me!” he shouted as loud he could. Lio acted like he was the captain of a ship. Quickly, Dan flipped the heavy table over the crack. Everyone followed Lio. They went down the door. Little that they knew, it led to a confusing maze. At the speed of Usain Bolt, he ran through the maze in a second. It would be a sprint by Lio without him slipping. They all laughed together. Lio had the honour of cutting it. It was an unforgettable day for Lio.

1 YEAR LATER

---

“Dan! Come on I’m not being late again!” shouted Lio. Dan grabbed his heavy bags. “Remember your sandwich,” said Dan’s Mum. Lio remember how it was like when Dan did it. They walked to school with cheeky smirk. “I guessed you have changed,” said Dan. Lio repeated every single word that Dan said to him.
