

Joel

"John!" screamed Dad. "John, where are you?" John's Dad checked all the rooms to find his son. Once he had checked the basement, an enormous explosion took place in the attic.

"Might as well scrutinize the attic for a while" Dad said to himself. But once he got there, a colossal whiff of smoky, black haze enveloped him and it threw him downstairs.

Dad was out for a few minutes. When he got back up, he carefully went back up the stairs and saw what his son was doing "WOW! Son" Dad said in amazement. "What is this fantastic thingamabob. "It's my firework display," Said John. "For the school firework talent show."

"My firework display is one of my best talents yet" explained John "These two I call the hypnotic hands and the flame dragons". "AMAZING!!!" exclaimed Dad. "But wouldn't you like some help before you blow the roof of the house again?" "Okay" said John.

The next day was the talent show Henry kept boasting about winning the competition. But he was wrong... next up was Henry he threw a fire blast in the air. Two minutes later, KABOOM! It malfunctioned, and created a massive boulder in the sky. And it fell upon the ground.

Two minutes later, the ringing in everyone's ear had ceased and the earthquake commenced the ground shaking, people flying. Suddenly, NASA arrived on earth and saved everyone from flying away.

In five seconds, NASA was able to stop the earthquake with a powerful rocket landing. Everyone was saved.