Once upon a time there lived a boy who was known for lying. He told such radicles lies like 'I can blow out the sun,' and 'I can kill a lion with just my bear hands'. As you can imagine no one believed him well almost everyone but his caring mum always believed him. His favourite thing to do was fake illness, he loved it. His favourite time of day was when in the middle of the day when he would pretended to get better and then he could go off and do whatever he pleased.

Suddenly, when he was pretending to be ill, his caring mum came into the room and found him sitting up in bed playing on his phone and a few days later she found him playing on his laptop. After all this, his caring mum sat down and came to a conclusion he was lying!

The next day, when lying boy asked to be pardoned from school because he was feeling dizzy caring mum refused so after a little argument he want to school as usual. Later that day, caring mum received a call from the school. They said that her son had passed out and he had to go to hospital immediately.

Suddenly, panic griped caring mum. She ran to the school to pick up her son and then rushed him to hospital.
